Reviews

This ebook could be worthy of a read through, and far better than other. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. I realized this publication from my dad and i advised this publication to learn.

Not illustrated. 1821 Excerpt: . . . to make the choice; I die, dear Meggy, or I live for thee. And could I let a dear young captain die, With hands so white and manners so genteel Who says Im brighter than an angels eye, And jumps in rapture when I dance a reel. He call me fair, and elegantly low; He hates a tall, thin lady, like a reed; My form, he owns, first made his feelings glow; But twas my sense that made him mine indeed. Whateer I do, his words, his looks approve; Whateer I say, is followed by his praise. Oh! what a heart has he for faithful love! And then what whiskers, and romantic ways! My Captain dear! what taste, what teeth, are thine! Thee will I follow, oer the fields afar; My uncles siller shall no more be mine, But make a major of my brave Dunbar. Yes, will I wed the dear enchanting man, And then to Glasgow will we proudly ride; The happiest pair, since Hymens laws began--A major he, and I majors bride! He who in ease hath passd the live-long week, Or sought with eager steps gay pleasures bowrs, Quaffd the full bowl, or shard the social board, Nor felt a pain but what satiety eer frames, Neer knows the thrill that swells the breast of him, Who spent with toil, and faint in evry limb As on his pillow, with a grateful sigh, He gladly lays him down, and thus exclaims, To-morrow...
