Excerpt: . / I chapter V. the spread of the movement. Once by the river side A little fountain rose; Now like the Severn s seaward tide Round the broad world it flows. --J. Montgomery. it was not till November 3rd, 1783, or more than three years after the commencement of his first school, that Raikes made the Sundayschool system public in the columns of his newspaper. He did so without any mention of his own name, and without in any way attempting to claim credit for his share in the movement. This is a significant fact, which seems to have been overlooked by those who would attempt to represent him as vain-glorious and fond of praise. Considering the part which he had taken in the establishment of Sunday-schools, he could scarcely have announced the scheme in more modest terms than he did. His words...
